

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A table top includes a metal base, a cover body adhered to the metal base through a first adhesive layer, and a top plate adhered to the cover body through a second adhesive layer. The metal base includes a metal plate, and a metal frame underlying the metal plate. The cover body covers the metal base. The top plate overlies the cover body, and is made of a stony material. The table top further includes first and second fibrous screens, which are embedded respectively within the first and second adhesive layers.